NBCRFLI Foreword

Every day, thousands of truck drivers travel South Africa's roads to ensure that businesses remain operational, goods reach their destinations, and our country's economy continues to move forward. Behind every successful journey is the health and wellbeing of the people who keep our freight industry in motion.

The Trucking Wellness Programme remains one of the National Bargaining Council for the Road Freight and Logistics Industry's most significant investments in the wellbeing of our industry. Through accessible healthcare services delivered directly along the country's major freight corridors, the programme continues to remove barriers to healthcare for truck drivers, transport workers and surrounding communities.

The achievements presented in this report reflect far more than impressive statistics. They represent thousands of opportunities to detect illness early, prevent disease, provide treatment, promote healthier lifestyles and ultimately improve the quality of life of those who depend on our road freight industry for their livelihoods.

During 2025, the programme continued to expand its reach and impact through an integrated model of health promotion, screening, counselling, primary healthcare and treatment. More than 29,000 primary healthcare consultations were provided through our Roadside Wellness Clinics, while mobile outreach services extended access to healthcare to workplaces and transport hubs across the country. Thousands of HIV tests, tuberculosis screenings, STI treatments and chronic disease screenings were conducted, ensuring that healthcare remains accessible where it is needed most.

These achievements are only possible through strong partnerships. We remain grateful to the Corridor Empowerment Project, our programme managers, whose professionalism, innovation and commitment continue to ensure that services are delivered to the highest possible standard. We also acknowledge the invaluable support of the National Department of Health, our provincial health partners, organised labour, employer organisations, transport operators, donors and every stakeholder who contributes towards strengthening healthcare access within our sector.

Perhaps one of the most encouraging indicators contained within this report is not found solely in the service statistics, but in the voices of the people we serve.

The client satisfaction survey demonstrates exceptionally high levels of satisfaction, with clients consistently describing respectful treatment, compassionate healthcare professionals and services that they would confidently recommend to others. These findings reaffirm that quality healthcare is measured not only by the number of people reached, but also by the dignity, compassion and professionalism with which care is delivered.

As the healthcare needs of our industry continue to evolve, the NBCRFLI remains committed to supporting innovative, evidence-based interventions that improve health outcomes and strengthen the resilience of the road freight and logistics sector. The continued expansion of digital health systems, strategic partnerships, preventative healthcare initiatives and community engagement demonstrates our commitment to ensuring that the Trucking Wellness Programme remains responsive, sustainable and relevant for years to come.

On behalf of the National Bargaining Council for the Road Freight and Logistics Industry, I extend my sincere appreciation to every healthcare professional, coordinator, support staff member, partner organisation and stakeholder who has contributed to the programme's success during the past year. Your dedication continues to make a meaningful difference in the lives of thousands of South Africans.

As you read this report, I invite you to look beyond the numbers. Every consultation represents a person who received care. Every screening represents an opportunity to prevent illness. Every referral represents hope. Together, these individual moments create a healthier workforce, safer roads and stronger communities.

Together, we continue to drive change
—one kilometre at a time.

Musa Ndlovu

National Secretary

National Bargaining Council for the Road Freight and Logistics Industry

Acknowledgements

The success of the Trucking Wellness Programme is founded on the strength of collaboration. Every consultation provided, every health screening conducted and every life impacted is made possible through the commitment and support of our partners, funders and stakeholders who share our vision of a healthier, safer and more resilient road freight and logistics industry.

We extend our foremost appreciation to the National Bargaining Council for the Road Freight and Logistics Industry (NBCRFLI), the project owner and principal sponsor of the Trucking Wellness Programme. The NBCRFLI's leadership, strategic oversight and sustained financial commitment make the continued operation and expansion of the Programme possible, ensuring that accessible healthcare services reach employees across South Africa's road freight and logistics industry.

We extend our sincere appreciation to our valued sponsors whose financial support enables the continued delivery and expansion of healthcare services across South Africa's major freight corridors:

We gratefully acknowledge our strategic partners, whose expertise, collaboration and shared commitment strengthen the reach and quality of our services:

Acknowledgements

We gratefully acknowledge our strategic partners, whose expertise, collaboration and shared commitment strengthen the reach and quality of our services:

We also recognise the important contribution of the employer organisations that continue to support the advancement of employee health and wellbeing within the industry:

Finally, we acknowledge the dedication of the management and staff of the Corridor Empowerment Project, our programme managers, together with every Professional Nurse, Coordinator, Mobile Clinic team member, support staff member and volunteer whose passion and commitment bring healthcare to those who need it most.

Together, these partnerships continue to strengthen access to quality healthcare, improve health outcomes and contribute towards a healthier workforce, safer roads and stronger communities.

Together, we are driving the wellbeing of South Africa's road freight and logistics industry.

Milestones

CEP partners with First 3D to launch the Clarifeye Eye Test pilot at Roodekop Clinic

7 October

CEP is committed to continuous innovation and improvement of the services offered through Trucking Wellness. The importance of vision and in specific the vision of truck drivers has been identified as an important health need with high-risk consequences if not screened and supported proactively. CEP identified a partner to facilitate the proactive vision screening and mitigate this risk.

The Clarifeye Vision Screening machine is manufactured by First 3D, the current manufacturer of the VeriFeye vision screener for vision screening by the Driver Licence Card Authority at driver's licence centres in South Africa. VeriFeye was developed by First 3D with scientific input from the Department of Optometry at the Universities of Johannesburg and Northwest. Visit ClariFeye is an extension to screen broader and more in depth to include Occupational Health required vision screenings. This will allow for regular and early identification of vision constraints in truck drivers that require further specialized services. It will furthermore provide the opportunity to investigate vision risk prevalence amongst truck drivers and relations between uncontrolled blood sugar, blood pressure, fatigue, and vision.

First 3D partnered with CEP and agreed to provide a ClariFeye vision screener at no cost. The screener was installed at Roodekop roadside Wellness Centre on 7 October 2025. The Professional Nurse and Coordinator received training on the basics of vision screening and the use of the machine. Each client is receiving a printed certificate to confirm that they have passed the current driving legislative requirements or not. If the client did not pass the screening requirements, he / she is referred to Specsavers / other service provider for specialised services. There is no cost to the client for the screening or the certificate.

The pilot project has been extended to Villiers Wellness Clinic from 1 April 2026.
